The Directory of Public Libraries is a compilation of over 2,300 libraries designated by each State's Librarian to receive their state's microfiche containing data collected under Section 313 (j) of the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA) Title III of the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986 -- Public Law 99-499. Section 313 (j) of EPCRA requires EPA to establish the National Toxic Chemical Release Inventory (TRI) and to make the data/information collected annually available to the public through computer telecommunications and other means. TRI is distributed, sold and available in many different forms -- online through the National Library of Medicine, CD-ROM, dBase, and Lotus floppy diskettes, microfiche, magnetic tape. It is accessible to the public in one or more of these forms from thousands of locations nationwide, as well as several international locations, of which this Directory identifies over 40% of those locations.

INTRODUCTION

This DIRECTORY lists the Public Libraries in states and territories which have copies of the TOXIC RELEASE INVENTORY on microfiche. This format is concise, easy to use and readily accessible to the general public. The fiche consists of three sections: 1) Introduction and Reference Section (including a SEARCHING GUIDE for the use of the fiche), 2) Index - to search for information by 13 different means (chemical, facility, county, state, etc.), and 3) TRI Submissions for 1987.

PURPOSE: The TOXIC RELEASE INVENTORY has been distributed to these libraries in order to make "Title III - the Community Right-to-know"* information accessible to ALL citizens within each state at low cost to the user with "reasonable" convenience.

USE: The public may find the access point nearest them through the DIRECTORY. States and cities are listed alphabetically, (states by mailing code abbreviation). These libraries are specifically chosen by each State's Librarian to meet the public's needs.

SELECTION CRITERIA: Library selection was guided in each state by that state's librarian. The State Libraries were contacted and each responded according to the demands and regional distribution system of their state's public library system.

You will find county public libraries, regional distribution centers, or college libraries listed for each state. In addition, please consult the Directory of Federal Depository Libraries, which lists more than 1,400 libraries nationwide holding copies of the TRI. EPA is committed through this broad distribution base to provide information for the first time to local communities and their citizens which will assist in their knowledge and understanding of the environment - and fulfill our purpose, the Community Right-to-Know.

* Section 313 of the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-know Act of 1986.

Title: Toxic Chemical Release Inventory (TRI)

Mandated by Title III of the SUPERFUND Amendments and Reauthorization Act (SARA) of 1986 (Public Law 99-499), the Inventory contains provisions for the reporting, by industry, on the releases of over 300 toxic chemicals into the air, water, and land. Data submitted to EPA and each State include names and addresses of facilities which manufacture, process, or otherwise use these chemicals, as well as amounts released to the environment or transferred to waste sites. Title III, also known as the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act, calls for the EPA and States to collect this data on an annual basis. The law mandates that the data be made publicly available through a computer database (accessible from the National Library of Medicine's TOXNET System) and through other means. EPA selected optical technology and the standard COMfiche and magnetic media as the other means of publication. The TRI should appeal to a broad based user audience including industry, state and local environmental agencies, emergency planning, committees, the Federal Government, other regulatory groups, and concerned citizens, who on their own or through public interest groups and libraries, can use TRI to find information about chemicals in their communities.

For more information contact the Title III Hotline by calling (toll-free) 800-535-0202 (202-479-2449 in Washington, DC and Alaska). The Hotline's hours are 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. est, Monday through Friday.
